

SEALICE ONLINE

The global Sea Lice Community is meeting online on 7 to 9 September 2021

Also in the programme, we invite sponsored presentations from the industry. The sponsorships, then, will enable free participation from across the international sea lice community.

The Sea Lice Online programme is scheduled for three days of an approximately two-hours duration each. The timing is designed to accommodate participation across several time zones. There are five presentations per day, 10 minutes each. The presentations are streamed from our studio here at Fiskaaling, Faroe Islands. We then facilitate a live online session where all five presenters discuss the issues at hand, and questions from the viewers will be addressed.

Viewers are invited to submit questions and comments simultaneously during the presentations. The back-end of the studio then screens the comments and questions before releasing them for all to see on the screen. Questions can also be 'voted' up, so we may address the most popular or requested questions in the studio.

Tue. 7 Sept. 15.00-17.00 CET	Topic 1: Host and parasite biology: keys for control
Wed. 8 Sept. 15.00-17.00 CET	Topic 2: Environmental impacts and societal responsibility
Thu. 9 Sept. 15.00-17.00 CET	Topic 3: Expanding options for integrated pest management: improved tools for a sustainable future

Each day, the presentations and online sessions are followed by sponsored presentations. There are 40 minutes dedicated for this purpose on each day. Sponsored presentations can be either a 5 minutes or a 10 minutes pre-recorded feature. Also, logos will be made visible and our host will positively mention the sponsors during the conference, and logos with active links will feature on the sealiceconference.net homepage.

The Organising Committee has brought forward the world's most respected authorities to present in the Sea Lice programme. We aim to feature high quality and relevant presentations, and by bringing in presentations from the industry we aim to achieve a complimentary perspective, too. We believe that the conference will be an opportunity for the industry to present its own research, findings, applications and solutions.

It has been a long time since the best experts in the field have met to present the latest research findings etc. We have good indications that the Online Conference will attract a considerable audience, and it will provide a positive trigger for the highly anticipated big conference next year here in the Faroe Islands. Now, in early August, over 250 persons have registered for the conference.
